Ray Moody, the driver, telephoned to Adams, the owner, in this city, who went up immediately. It was found necessary to shoot the animal and his sufferings were ended at once. A light buggy was procured and the mails carried on after a delay of about two hours.

State's Attorney Frank A. Bailey has received copies of the Socialist paper published at Barre containing the article which was declared objectionable by the state department, and which caused the sheet to be branded as "revolutionary and anarchistic." Mr. Bailey has not yet heard from District Attorney James J. Martin, with whom he has communicated, and through whose office it is expected action will be taken if it can be done.

Evening Argus. The Argus makes a mistake in calling it a socialist paper. The paper itself claims to be an anarchistic publication.
